Art Unit: 2862

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

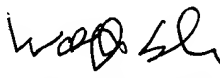

2. Claims 1-10, 13, 14 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Earnst et al, of record, in view of Moyer.

Earnst discloses all of the claimed subject matter, note fig. 9, except for the specific details of the magnet, the carriage and the specific details of the carriage. Moyer teaches in the field of magnetic flow detection mounting a flaw detector on a carriage with a plurality of supports. One of the support is a spring for forcing the sensor against the element being inspected. This inherently controls liftoff. The sensor further comprises protective material. It would have been obvious to provide a carriage as claimed to the device of Earnst in view of the teaching of Moyer. The specific details of the magnet and mounting of the probe are considered obvious design considerations.

3. Claims 11, 12, 16, 19 and 20 are allowed.
